How does a doctor earn the Cigna Care Designation?

Here are the steps we take every year.

Quality comes first.

- › We identify the primary and specialty care doctors in the Cigna network who have treated at least 30 Cigna customers in one of the 21 specialties.
- › We check their education and board certifications.
- › We also check to see if the quality of their care has earned recognition from within the medical industry. For example, we consider two well-respected organizations, The American College of Surgeons and the National Council for Quality Assurance and their approved "quality" recognitions.

Cost matters, too.

- › We review claims information to see what doctors are charging for various treatments and services.
- › We look at different levels of care from office visits and lab tests, to prescriptions and X-rays, to see if treatments are cost effective.
- › We examine the results of the doctor's services and the costs related to those services.
- › We want to see if each doctor consistently works to keep costs reasonable, while delivering care that focuses on improving your health.

We study all of this information. We test it. Then, doctors with top results in both categories earn the Cigna Care Designation. This gives you an unbiased evaluation of quality and cost that you can use to help you choose a doctor that is right for you.
